DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 8-11, 12-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cooke et al. (US D248335). With respect to claim 1, Cooke et al. discloses the following:

- A base (Fig. 1 below)
- Continuous wall extending up from base
- Gripping means (Fig. 1 below)
- Dipping section (interior of container)
- Inclined tongue portion (Fig. 1 below)

With respect to claim 1, Cooke et al. discloses the following:

- A base
- Continuous wall extending up from base
- Gripping means (Fig. 1B below)
- Dipping section (interior of container)
- Inclined tongue portion (Fig. 1B below)

Art Unit: 3781

With respect to claim 8, Cooke et al. discloses the gripping means comprising at least one recess in the sidewall (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 9, Cooke et al. discloses the gripping means comprising a first and second grip portion (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 10, Cooke et al. discloses at least one recess extending upwards less than the wall height (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 11, Cooke et al. discloses the gripping means having ridges as shown in Fig. 3 below.

With respect to claim 12, Cooke et al. discloses the dipping section width and tongue width being substantially equal (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 13, Cooke et al. discloses the dipping section width being in the range of 85-115% of the tongue portion width (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 14, Cooke et al. discloses the dipping section including a tapered portion adjacent gripping means (Fig. 6 below).

With respect to claim 15, Cooke et al. discloses the tongue portion including a leading edge, wherein the leading edge is the end edge of the tongue (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 16, Cooke et al. discloses the tongue portion being configured to allow a brush having a width of 3 inches to be dabbed thereon (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 17, Cooke et al. discloses the tongue portion being at an angle of 45 degrees (Fig. 6 below).

Art Unit: 3781

With respect to claims 18-19, Cooke et al. discloses the tongue portion including side edge barriers, wherein the barriers are an extension of the wall extending from the base (Fig. 1 below).

With respect to claim 20, Cooke et al. discloses the wall extending from the base having an outward taper (Fig. 6 below).

With respect to claim 21, Cooke et al. discloses the gripping means comprising at least one recess extending from the container base (Fig. 1 below).

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art. Unit: 3781

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bebak (US 6419106 B1). With respect to claim 1, Bebak discloses the following:

- A base (Fig. 1)
- Continuous wall extending up from base
- Gripping means 12
- Dipping section (interior of container)
- Inclined tongue portion 16B & 18

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Cooke et al. With respect to claims 2-4, Cooke et al. discloses the claimed invention except for torque generated being no more than 1.0 or 0.8 or 0.6 foot-pounds. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to design the torque generated to be no more than 1.0 or 0.8 or 0.6 foot-pounds. since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result-effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

7. Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Beback in view of Pereira Da Silva (US 6006901). With respect to claims 5-7, Beback discloses the claimed invention except for the gripping means extending at least 50%, 45%, and 40% of said length. However, Pereira Da Silva teaches a container having recessed handles that extend at least 50% (which includes 45% & 40%) along the length of the base, thereby providing an alternate gripping means. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to replace the handle of Beback with that of Pereira Da Silva so as to provide an alternate gripping means that extends at least 50% (which includes 45% & 40%) along the length of the base.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to all claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
